Alabama String Quartet To Give Chapel Concert

"Memorable concert," "Succeeded in creating a harmonious blend and sonority," and "truly inspired reading" make up the comments from THE DAILY JOURNAL, Jacksonville, Illinois, after an appearance at the University of Alabama String Quartet which will appear here in Van Meter auditorium at 10:00 a. m. and in the Choral room of the Music building on January 19.

The Quartet is led by Ottokar Cadek, first violin; Margaret Christy, cello; Emily Searcy, second violin; and Henry Barrett, viola. Also, the organization which is termed as one of the most significant achievements of today's musical South is credited to Mr. Cadek, a native of Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Professor Cadek's record of artistic attainments is a notable one, and comprises an unusually diversified field activity. For thirteen years first violinist of the famous New York String Quartet, with which he toured all the principal cities of the United States, he nevertheless declares he has found greater satisfaction as head of the violin department of the University of Alabama, conductor of its symphony orchestra and leader of its string quartet. He was recently presented with the priceless Stradivarius Violin, made in 1718, which he has used in concerts ever since he was the first violinist of the famous New York Quartet, 1919-1933.

Emily Searcy, second violinist, is a graduate of the University under Mr. Cadek, and has studied in New

Fifteen Stations Broadcast Game

When the Western Kentucky Hilltoppers take the floor for a basketball game this season an estimated more than 2,000,000 people are listening to a play-by-play account over a vast Kentucky-Tennessee network of 15 radio stations stretching from Harlan, Kentucky, to Lewisburg, Tennessee.

Ken Given, manager of Bowling Green's two radio stations, WLB and WBON-FM, is at the microphone for every Western game giving a vivid word account of the tilt on the widespread broadcasts sponsored by the Ashland Oil company. Never before in the history of basketball at Western have so many people been able to hear a direct account of the Hilltoppers in action.

Radio stations which carry the broadcasts throughout Kentucky and Tennessee from the Western gymnasium or the playing courts of quintet the Hilltoppers hit the road to meet are, in addition to the two Bowling Green stations, WHOP and WHOP-FM, Hopkinsville; WJVS and WJVS-FM, Owensboro; WPAD-FM, Paducah; WNSB, Murray; WKAY, Glasgow; WSON-FM, Henderson; WKIC, Hazard; WHLN, Harlan; WSIX-FM, Nashville, Tennessee; WJLM, Lewisburg, Tennessee; and WJZM, Clarksville, Tennessee.

French Travel Posters Exhibited In Art Room

An exhibit of post-war French travel posters is now on display in the Art department on the third floor of Cherry hall.

These colorful posters were sent to Western through the services of the Franco-American Audio-Visual Distribution Center, New York, New York, which supplies materials to promote better relations between the United States and France.

Western Players Scheduled To Present 'The Contrast' On Thursday Evening

Larry Dewese

Martha Crady

Hugh Noffsinger

Western Players will present THE CONTRAST, the second in their series of significant American dramas, in Van Meter auditorium on Thursday evening, January 20.

THE CONTRAST, a patriotic play written to bring out Americanism in America, was written by Royall Tyler on his first visit to New York, after he had seen New York produce SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL. He wrote THE CONTRAST with the idea of contrasting fine qualities of pioneer America, with the Tories in America.

To accomplish the purpose of his satire, the plot THE CONTRAST deals with the experiences of a veteran of the American Revolution in the New York social circles. Veteran's problems in 1787 were much the same as the veteran's problems after any war. He finds himself faced with a difficult business of adapting himself to a society from which he has been separated for several years: a society which is unaware of the personal sacrifices and hardships that he has undergone during that separation and that cares little. Colonel Manley's wearing a regimental coat while on a military mission in New York offends his coquettish sister, Charlotte, because of his disregard for fashionable dress.

THE CONTRAST in ideas and in manners and morals extends through the entire group of characters. The literary significance of the play lies in the fact that it was the first successful American play written by an American, with an American subject, and performed first by American players.

The dramatic significance of THE CONTRAST lies in the fact that American life for first time was given presentation in the theater and Royall Tyler is credited with creating the character of the typical yankee, in his Jonathan.

The song "Yankee Doodle Dandy" is part of the play and was probably sung on the stage in the original production. Historically, the play is significant in its apt presentation of life, manners, and dress of the people of the United States in 1787.

In the cast of THE CONTRAST, a number of players are making their first appearance in the Western Players production. These include Larry A. Dewese, Martha Crady, Grace Lane, Hugh Noffsinger, Leveta Bradley, David Mefford, and Susan Jones.

Other members of the cast: George Anne Lowe, Louis Shelton, Bob Spiller, Morris Lowe, and Kermit Binkley, were seen in MISSOURI LEGEND last November.

The play is scheduled for Thursday, January 20, in Van Meter Auditorium. The technical staff includes Thomas W. White, assistant director; assisted by W. R. Russell, A. J. McCarty, Jr., Nick Dichenko, Coleman Carter, Bill Dolan, and Jim Wright.

The play is under the direction of Mr. Russell H. Miller, of the English department faculty.

Retiring Queen

Joy Davis, retiring Military Queen, will participate in the coronation of the new queen in the Physical Education building tonight.

Graduate Directs Counseling Group

Word has been received that Mr. R. C. Roberts, dean of East Central junior college, Decatur, Mississippi, is directing a counseling program for teachers in that section of the state.

Mr. Roberts was graduated from Western in the summer of '34, with a major in geography and a minor in physics. Later he did some post-graduate work in the field of biology. He last attended Western in the summer of '37.

He married Mary Lee Holmes, who was a student at Western in '36-'37. They now have a two-year-old son, Robbie.

He obtained the master's degree in biology from Peabody in 1941. Since that time he has taught at Castle Heights Military academy, Lebanon, Tennessee; Monticello, Arkansas; A. & M. College; Coast Guard academy preparatory school, while in the Armed Forces; and is now in his third year as dean of East Central Junior college. He is also teaching some classes in orientation and physics.

Classical Club Is Reactivated

The F. C. G. Classical club was reactivated Wednesday evening, January 12, when the group met at the home of Miss Sibyl Stonecipher, club sponsor. Founded twenty-four years ago, the organization was discontinued in 1942 because of wartime conditions and decreased enrollments.

The club has a colorful history. Its first meeting was called to order February 10, 1925. At that time approximately twenty five persons were members of the club.

Dean Finley C. Grise can claim the distinction of having started the F. C. G. classical club. As head of the foreign languages department he sponsored the club for several years.

The club's initials, F. C. G., come from the Latin words, FIDES-COMCORDIA-GRATIA, interpreted fidelity, harmony, and good-will. This term has become the motto of the club. It is also interesting to note that these are the same first letters as those in the name of the Classical club's founder, Dean Grise.

Dean Grise compared the reactivated club with that of earlier days:

Ogden Contest Date Announced

Finals of the Robinson declamation contest have been set for February 16, and April 27 is the scheduled date for the Ogden Oratorical contest according to an announcement by Mr. Russell H. Miller, speech and dramatics teacher in the English department.

Along with physical equipment of the Ogden foundation, Western inherited a number of traditions of this distinguished school for boys. Among these traditions is the awarding of medals to outstanding speakers.

The speech contest is divided into two forms; first, the Robinson Declamation, which is open to freshmen and sophomores. Second of the contests is the Ogden Oratorical contest which is open to juniors and seniors.

Prior to its consolidation with Western, Ogden college conferred annually on a member of its student body the Robinson medal for the best declamation given by a student, in secondary department, and the Ogden Medal for the best original oration given by a student in the college department. The contests for the Robinson and Ogden medals are open to men only and are conducted by the speech department. The medals are awarded by the board of regents of Ogden college.

Last year's Ogden Oratorical contest winner was Nick Diachenko, using as his subject "Our Heritage." The 1948 winner of the Robinson Declamation contest was Bill Workman of Madisonville.

Bowling Green, Kentucky, January 14, 1949

NEXT EDITION TO BE FEBRUARY 11

No issue of the HERALD will be printed during final examination week.

By Friday, January 28, the regular publication date, most faculty members and students alike will have departed from the Hill for the weekend between semesters. The fact that the printing office has a full volume of work planned for the earlier portion of the week makes moving up the publication date unfeasible.

The break in schedule will also probably be a boon to the classwork routine of most of the staff. Time ordinarily spent in preparing HERALD copy will doubtless afford a welcome opportunity to complete term reports which have naturally been delayed until the last minute and to make more thorough preparation for finals.

The next edition is scheduled for February 11. That date will, of course, find the next semester underway with the feeling of freshness and vigor which always accompanies a new beginning.

Book Marks

Four 1948 books illustrated by Dorothy Grider have been received in the library. They indicate the distinction which this Western alumna has attained in the field of art.

MY FIRST PICTURE DICTIONARY is published by Wilcox and Pollett company, Chicago. Accompanying each word is a picture in attractive colors. The book is priced at fifty cents.

Two books in the book-shelf series are A DAY ON THE FARM and MY TRUCK BOOK, published by Rand McNally, Chicago. All the illustrations show life and action. These volumes are also inexpensive books. The library staff reports that Miss Grider's illustrations in TELL ME ABOUT PRAYER by Mary Alice Jones are unusually beautiful. This book is a Rand McNally publication, priced at two dollars.

The artist's mother related the manner in which Miss Grider was chosen to illustrate Mary Alice Jones' book. TELL ME ABOUT PRAYER. Announcement had been made that the well-known Pelagie Doane would be the illustrator. When Miss Doane suddenly became ill, Rand McNally chose Dorothy Grider to do the book. After Miss Doane had recovered and had seen the illustrations, she invited Dorothy to have lunch with her and congratulated her on the beautiful and appropriate illustrations in TELL ME ABOUT PRAYER.

Dorothy Grider was an art major at Western, and is a native of Bowling Green.

Gettin a new etiquette book is always an event in the library. VOGUE'S BOOK OF ETIQUETTE,

Our Roving Reporters Seek A Definition Of Education

By Morris Lowe and John Simpson

What is an educated man?

Is he a walking encyclopedia with college degrees bulging from every pocket? Is he a person who can answer any conceivable question with the utmost aplomb?

Your reporters decided to find out what a few of the people on the campus here at Western thought about the subject.

First a feminine member of the faculty enlightened us with the following:

"An educated individual is one whose heart and mind have been quickened by experiences gained perhaps through formal education, perhaps not. Such a man can adapt himself readily to new situations; he is interested in the people and things around him; he never stops learning from books and from other people. He realizes that true happiness lies within ones self."

Having found a cute little blonde browsing through a fashion magazine in the periodical room, we posed the question before her and after a moment of coagulated cogitation we received this answer:

"An educated man is one who can adapt himself to any situation that he wants to."

Next we approached an English teacher and got this response:

"An educated man is a person who takes great pains to find out the truth and is equally interested in applying it to his own and other's needs. He is not shut away from a changing world."

A feminine math major thought about it and decided that:

"An educated man is not necessarily one who is educated in book learning. He must be able to think for himself and put his thought into action. (This point is excellent: instead of putting thoughts into words, put them into action.) He is a person capable of leadership and guidance."

In order to see if the late war has left any particular impressions upon the mind of one who saw a great deal of it, we asked a naval veteran of the Pacific war.

"In my opinion he is not necessarily one who has received many diplomas and degrees, but instead he is a person who thru thoughtfulness and kindness to his fellow men can prove himself useful to the world. He permits no race or religious prejudices to take root in his heart or mind."

That academic work alone does not make one educated became evident.

"An educated person is one who is poised; one who is gracious to both superiors and inferiors, as well as to equals; one who has a broad outlook on life; one who has a philosophy by which he can live in prosperity and in adversity; one who is sufficiently trained in schooling that he can be at home with scholarship but can be equally at home with the unschooled; one who is tolerant of the religious beliefs of others but has a faith of his own which is indispensable to his spiritual life."

This statement was from another feminine member of the faculty.

An ex-combat infantryman of the war in Europe had the following to say on our elusive character:

"He is understanding, loyal to democracy, keeps himself well-informed, and keeps in mind that much much of his past lies in his future."

As to the faculty, we find the following from another feminine teacher:

"He is one who is thoughtful, kind, and understanding at all times. He is not afraid to allow these graces to permeate his entire personality and 'glow out' continuously. He retains the common touch, although he may have many degrees."

Detaining a female against her will, we got this answer from a little coed:

"An educated man is one who by applying what he has learned in school and what he knows by instinct to be right makes himself better suited to fit into the big plan of life: that of living with and getting along with his fellow human beings."

That thought is good. Since man is here to stay we might as well a 1946 publication, has just been received. This new volume has chapters on etiquette for both men and women.

To have three poets at Western whose verses have been selected for publication in AMERICA SINGS, an annual anthology of college poetry, is unusual. A copy of the anthology has been received in the library. Western is represented by Carolyn Boyd's "Into the Night," Ina Ware Thornbury's "Motto," and Roland V. Villiers, "Refrain."

learn to get along with him peacefully, whether he be black, white, yellow, or Lower Slobovian.

To bring our little survey of thought waves to a close we posed our little brain teaser before one last contestant and received the following responses.

"An educated man is one who has learned to live with his fellow men in harmony, to earn an honest living, to be at peace with God; one who through a knowledge of the best of the past, can live in the present, with no fear of the future."

Seven-eight-nine-Ten! You're out my dear walking encyclopedia. And why did you loose? Why, books alone do not make a man educated. He should have at least one of the virtues named above.

ENGLISH CLUB MEETS

The English club recently held its regular monthly meeting with the election of new officers for the coming semester. Those elected were Barrett Green, president; Jack Cooke, vice-president; Tom Cornwell, secretary; and Joe Baxter, sergeant-at-arms.

Several important matters of business were presented before the club. Refreshments were served by Dorothy Finelli.

John N. Johnson, retiring president, who will be graduated at the end of the semester, is planning to teach English at Clay, Barrett Green will also be graduated then but he plans to remain at Western as a graduate student.

During the Christmas holidays Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Billings and Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Wood spent a few days in Coffeyville, Kansas, with the Reverend Robert Scott and Mrs. Scott, and their three children.

Mrs. Scott is the former Miss Beatrice Billings.

Student Hiking Club Stages Thirteen Mile Initiation

By June Baxter

Last Saturday a group of Nature Boy's adherents took to their heels and optimistically and sleepily departed from Cherry Hall at seven o'clock in the morning, their clapping footsteps and loud yawns echoing and re-echoing through deserted College street as they began their pilgrimage out the Louisville road with the first destination a prearranged camp site about two miles out where breakfast was to be served.

When the group arrived at the campsite an unforeseen shower had dampened the fire considerably, and a leaking lard can which was to have held coffee had completed the dampening process. However, the coffee was made in a substitute container and the beverage was hot and aromatic by the time the group arrived.

The breakfast committee, consisting of Emmitt Haynes, a former Army mess sergeant; Norma Richards, Baptist Student Union secretary; Wehonah White, sophomore music major; and David Field, BSU president, were busily engaged in frying hog jowl (in lieu of bacon) and scrambling eggs.

Breakfast was served in style on can lids and paper plates. A slight shortage of cups and forks was overlooked as all present looked forward optimistically to a violent case of hoof and mouth disease.

Scrambled eggs, flavored with wood smoke, ashes, and gnats, were delicious to the famished hikers as they devoured everything in sight except the paper cups and about half the coffee—the demand for coffee having appreciably slackened after Laverne Van Cleave shouted to a person who shall remain forever nameless, "It doesn't matter if your feet are cold. Keep 'em out of the coffee!"

The remains of breakfast, the materials for lunch, and the lunch committee were packed into the lone automobile and sent ahead to prepare the way and warn all nervous people along the road that the motley procession was approaching.

The still exuberant hikers, led by Bettye Faye Heffington, sang (if it might be termed that), laughed, joked, and played tricks, as they strode confidently toward Bristow, breaking into a run at the prospect of cokes and bubble gum upon sighting the Bristow store.

Louella Wycoff enlightened Larry Robinson, the city dude in the crowd as to the purpose of certain objects for sale in the store, the odd things being wash tubs and lard cans.

After quenching thirst with cokes and gasoline and resting comfortably on spools of barbed wire the group dashed (slowly, as the mileage was beginning to tell on various and sundry individuals) down the road toward the smoke of another campfire, this one being behind the Jackson Grove Baptist church.

After a luncheon which featured hot dogs roasted on a fire, made of rather damp, rather rotten wood, which produced enough smoke to cause more tears to flow than the combined unfortunate love affairs of all Western, the group, consisting of twenty-six hardy souls, of reasonably sound mind and body (with the exception of a few lame toes, arches, and brains), decided to form a Hobo club.

Hobo King (president) was elected, the aforementioned ex-mess sergeant, Emmitt Haynes, erstwhile vice-president of the sophomore class, and president of the Cumberland Youth Fellowship, being chosen.

La Verne Van Cleave was selected as Hobo Queen (vice-president). The secretary's office was designed as that of scribe, June Baxter being elected by acclamation as the rest of the group conveniently feigned illiteracy.

The co-treasurers were termed, Thief and Pickpocket, JoAnn Winch, a Business university student, and Larry Robinson, transfer Yankee music and political science student from Joliet, Illinois, were selected after a demonstration of their proficiency.

The clubs planning another such excursion in approximately a month, according to the Queen. "By that time", she states, "the charter members may be recovered enough to

BIOLOGY

The Biology club met Wednesday, December 17, in the Kentucky building. The program was a social meeting, with Mrs. L. Y. Lancaster as hostess. Those present played cards, or spent the time in conversational groups.

ARTS AND CRAFTS

The Arts and Crafts club met Monday, January 3, in the Industrial Arts building.

Officers for next semester were elected. Harold Doane was elected president; W. O. Wilson, vice-president; Joe Meador, secretary; Harry Shaub, treasurer; and Wilmoth De-weese, sergeant at arms.

The club moved to add the office of historian. His duty will be to keep a record of industrial arts alumni, their home address and present address. He will also keep a record of club parties. Walter Wood was elected as historian.

Also, twenty-five dollars membership for the Youth Recreation center was purchased. The Arts and Crafts club is the first club on the Hill to buy a membership.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

The traditional French Twelfth night program was the highlight of the French club when the organization met Tuesday evening. Grace Lane served as mistress of ceremonies.

The program, called LA PETE DES ROIS and done by candlelight, began with all attention focused on a cake. Baked in this cake were several porcelain figures. The person getting the slice of cake that contained a certain figure was to become king or queen for the evening.

King for an Evening was the title given Joe Baxter when he got the lucky piece of cake. He then chose as his queen Wenonah White. Their highnesses next selected ladies-in-waiting, Mary Ann Dougherty and Gere Melton. The prince was John Goodwin.

The royal court "ruled" for the rest of the evening, and other club members could eat, drink, or act only with permission from the royalty.

As a finale for the program the king commanded the club to sing. They sang two French collegiate selections left by a former member, James Faulkner.

This old French festival has been celebrated since the beginning of the club in 1931 and is enhanced by collegiate rites brought to Western from France by Mr. Faulkner in 1941.

While James Hunt read the history of the ceremonies, Miss Marjorie Clagett, club sponsor, played the part of a magician. This part was formerly played by Mr. Faulkner.

This year's TALISMAN picture of the club was also taken at the Tuesday evening meeting.

Toppers Pluck Cardinals, 56-44, For 11th Win

Oldham Sparks Topper Offensive

By Bob Tinscher

The Cardinals of the University of Louisville were flying high in the roundball universe when the sharp-shooting of the Western Hilltoppers downed them Monday night at the Hilltop gymnasium.

In the beginning moments of the fray things looked gloomy for the favored Toppers as the Hickman coached Cardinals lived up to all advance notices and ball-hawked their way into a 12-5 lead. Johnny Knoph and Ish Combs snaggled the roundball from their opponents, and Kenny Reeves hit the bucket for the pointers. Once the Toppers did overcome the Cardinals margin of superiority, which came after about 12 minutes of the first half had elapsed, they proved to be superior in every phase of the game. The initial half was a nip-and-tuck affair and finally came to a conclusion with the Toppers leading in the scoring column 24-21.

As the second period opened and as it progressed, evidence pointed to a Topper victory. Western's accuracy with the hoop enabled them to used his height very effectively as lengthen their margin. Buddy Cate he turned in a brilliant defensive game and hit the hoop for 14 points. John Oldham was the equalizer of the Diddlemen; when the going became rough and hot, Oldham always very capably held the boys together, and Oldham set up the plays for those hard-to-miss crisp shots. Bob Lavoy's scoring night was temporarily stymied by the defensive ability of Jack Coleman, but his rebounding work was very commendable. Parsley turned in a most spirited performance and proved a thorn in the side of the Cardinals. If there was any death-dealing blow on the part of the Toppers, it was administered by Gene Rhodes, a freshman from Louisville, who gave his version of ball-hawking in retaliation for Hickman's type of ball players. His play making when Oldham was relieved of duty was also commendable.

The closing moments saw the visitors blow up in their typical style. As the moments ticked away on the clock the Cardinals became frantic with their shots, but to no avail. They left frantically flapping their ball-hawking pinions in futility.

Thirty teams are entered in the men's intramural basketball this season. Glad to see such an interest in the athletic program. All spectators are invited and are admitted free.

Toppers Make Clean Sweep Over 3 Game Eastern Tour

The inspired Western Kentucky State Hilltoppers made a successful invasion in the East to receive their 7th, 8th, and 9th consecutive victories in nine encounters of the present basketball engagements. The Diddlemen netted an average of 78 points against the foes. Canisius college was the first to suffer defeat at the hands of the Toppers, with Long Island university and St. Joseph's college following in like manner.

Charlie Parsley and Bob Lavoy led the Kentucky boys in a 65-55 struggle with Canisius. Parsley hit for 21 while Lavoy came in close order when he connected for 20 points. LIU found the Toppers ready for a fight and Western kayaked their host in a wide-open offensive battle. Lavoy led the scoring parade in the 83-58 win with 17. John Oldham and Buddy Cate grabbed 15 points and Rip Gish secured 12.

Leonard Lewin of the New York DAILY MIRROR wrote, "best description of Western Kentucky's style is that it's a superior Rhode Island State attack. It features a bunch of lanky guys with pogo sticks for legs who aren't too concerned with defense. They don't have to be if they can always hit .420 as they did against LIU, going 37-for-88 on an assortment of driving one-handers, hooks, sets, and sizzling tap-ins." In harmony with Mr. Lewin, Jim Russell of the New York STAR printed, "The Hilltoppers strike with terrifying speed, shoot with rare skill, and with their tremendous height gobble up rebounds like a steam shovel clearing a large sand pile."

Charlie Parsley burned a hole in the basket as he pushed in 28 points when St. Joseph's college found the Hilltoppers' style of play too much to keep up with. The Toppers hit the eighty mark again in collecting 86 points to St. Joseph's 69. The brilliant Toppers seemed to be untirable.

Want to take a trip? Have a good time? Have your money's worth in excitement? All this can be obtained when the Toppers invade the University of Louisville on February 2. The Cardinals will be waiting to try to avenge the loss given to them here Monday night. Get your tickets from Mr. Hornback the last of this month. Plan now to go!

Memphis Will Play Tuesday

The Western Kentucky State Hilltoppers will meet Memphis State here Tuesday night. On the weekend of January 21-22 the Toppers will move south to engage in a hardwood contest with the University of Miami. The team from Coral Gables, Florida, which is coached by Hart Morris, will serve as host of the Diddle men in two consecutive encounters.

The Hurricanes of Miami will entertain the Toppers in the Coral Gables Coliseum with its 5,000 seating capacity. This year the Hurricanes have scheduled such teams as South Carolina, Pittsburgh, Princeton, Maryland, and the mighty Hilltoppers. Eleven of the host games come in two consecutive tilts as in the case with Western. Only two contests are single games, those being with Stetson and Tampa.

Abe Friedman, letterman for the past two seasons, leads the Hurricane attack at his forward post. Friedman stands 5' 10" and was Miami's high scorer during the 1947-48 season. Also at a forward position is Bob "Whitey" Campbell, a Miami football star. Whitey made the all-SIAA tournament team in 1947. Campbell's value is in his speed, floor work, and one-handed shooting. He is a junior, 5' 11 1/2", and Miami's second highest scorer.

At the center spot will probably be Charles Schuyler, a 6' 2" sharp-shooter, or Bob Carroll, a 6' 3" rebound man. The guard positions are held by Ervin Ibach, 6' 3", and Jerry Weinstein, 5' 9".

The Toppers leave here by plane Thursday morning and will arrive at their destination at 4:50 Eastern Standard time.

Berea Falls To Toppers, 77-36

The powerful Hilltoppers blasted Berea off the court in a 77-36 easy victory Saturday night. The Toppers built up an early 27-3 margin in just eight minutes of play.

It was Charlie Parsley, Buddy Cate, John Oldham, and Bob Lavoy on driving layups that put the Toppers on top of an 8-0 count in the first three minutes. Then Parsley hit a one-hander from the circle and knifed his way the entire floor to connect for another. Cate pushed in a jump shot. Oldham took advantage of a miss by a tip-in.

The regulars ran it to 27-3 when Coach Ed Diddle used his next team against the foe. The Toppers still found the hoop with Eddie Diddle, Roy Mann, and John Givens leading the attack. At halftime Western was on top of a 46-17 score.

CLASSICAL CLUB

The purposes of the Classical club are essentially the same today as when it was begun: (1) to supplement a classical background for students interested in Latin; (2) to provide a clearinghouse for information concerning the teaching of Latin in high school; and (3) to give an opportunity for fellowship among those whose professional interests are similar.

"Throughout the history of Western there has been on the part of the faculty a very great interest in the humanities, especially in the ancient languages.

"Reactivation of the club has come in response to increased requests from the students themselves, a fact which indicates a renewed interest in the ancient classics."

The old records of the club are interesting. An early rule was that only students majoring in Latin were eligible to become members. Now membership is open not only to college students enrolled in Latin, but to former students and to those who have had Latin in high school.

Originally the club met twice a month. The new organization has scheduled monthly meetings. Beginning next semester, the group will meet on the fourth Wednesday of each month in the Kentucky building. The minutes show that, before the Kentucky building was erected, they met in the Cedar House.

During the '20's and '30's the old rollbook usually listed between twenty and thirty members. Former members, too, have always shown interest in the club.

Miss Stonecipher recalls that one of the best meetings was held in the summer of 1945. Though the F. C. G. Classical club was inactive at that time, several former members who were in school got together for a Latin club picnic at Dean Grise's home. This picnic "for old times' sake" marked the last meeting of the club before the one Wednesday evening.

In addition to the extensive coverage given the Hilltoppers in the Ashland Oil company - sponsored broadcasts, several other radio stations have carried broadcasts direct from the press box in the Western gymnasium. WHAS, WAVE, and WKLO from Louisville have frequently broadcast play-by-play accounts of Western games this season.

York and Boston with such noted masters as Edouard Dethier and Richard Burgin. Matching the Strad in quality is the silver-voiced Nicholas Amati belonging to her. It is one of the finest examples of this celebrated master, who is known as the teacher of Stradivari.

Henry Barrett, violinist, was a member of the Birmingham Civic Symphony Orchestra prior to several years of service in the United States Navy, and is continuing his studies at the University. His instrument is modern, constructed of very old wood on the exact dimensions of the Caspara da Salo viola played by Louis Bailly of the Pionzaley String Quartet. It has the deep alto quality so desirable in the delicate tonal balance of the string group.

A cello made by the Italian Presenda completes the ensemble. It is played by Margaret Christy, who has had wide experience in quartet playing in New York and elsewhere. She is a native of Minneapolis, and has studied with Roentgen, Graudan, Willeke, and Wilva, while active with teaching and ensemble playing. At present she holds the post of assistant professor of cello and theory at the University.

A sample program of the organization is as follows:

"Quartet Op. 95," Beethoven; "Andante Cantabile" and Scherzo "from Op. 30, 2 Tschalkowsky; "Piano Quintet," Dvorak-Roy McAllister, pianist; "Quartet in D Major" (The Ark), Hayden; "Notturmo and Scherzo" from QUARTET IN D MAJOR, Borodin; "Quartet in G Minor," Debussy; "Quartet Op. 59, No. 2," Beethoven; "Dover Beach," Samuel Barber—Wm. By

RAYMOND C. HORNBACE

Route 3, Louisville, Ky.

Dear Mr. Hornbace:

After one is out of school the chance at written retrospection comes seldom. It is with pleasure I answer "Uncle Billy's" request to drop you a line.

My life since leaving Western in August, 1943, has followed the accepted pattern of most females. I taught school, married and have a lovely wee daughter almost five months old. This is a skeleton story because in between all that time much excitement, experience and joy has come my way. My husband is working and going to night school at the University of Louisville, working desperately to earn a degree that to some came so easily. It is quite a challenge to both of us sacrificing our evenings and pleasure with Susan.

You wouldn't think that teaching, keeping house, and caring for a baby would leave much leisure time but strangely enough I find plenty. Several hobbies occupy my spare time. My Girl Scout Troop 156, I have had since September, 1943. These girls have grown from pig-tailed lassies to quite the teenagers. We consider ourselves one of the best troops in Louisville and our camping, dramatics, good will tours, plus other activities could fill a book.

For my own private pleasure I have developed interest in antiques. We live in an apartment over a private residence dealer. In a year and one-half I have become engrossed in the beauty of rare glass, silver and furniture. Out of pure consideration they let me browse through their wares and often act as sales-lady. When my heart is set on some lovely piece—I alone get the chance of paying for it if I can. Recently I have acquired a hundred-year-old early American sixteen-panel cherry corner cupboard. Getting antique furniture is sensible to me, if it has lasted one hundred years I can almost wager it will last my lifetime: a statement some of my new furniture can not extract from me.

Education has definitely taken a turn for the better in Louisville. Scientific thinking, a hangover from the Air Corps, is slowly making progress in the elementary schools. Children are being prepared for living sensibly without the whitewash the used to be in vogue. The right kind of tried workable material is desperately needed by elementary teachers. I am working on an arithmetic and unit book which some day I hope to have published. Regardless of skill or style an educator out of the actual working of elementary classroom can not, in my opinion, ideally write a sensible plan. This is a challenge to all elementary workers. Save those lesson plans you make, compile them, and see a publisher.

Numerous Western grads at different times have expressed desire for the Louisville and vicinity alumni to organize. I think it is an excellent idea and would be glad to help in any way possible. It is a shame for dozens of Westerners to be in a town and not see one another at least once a year.

This is about all for now — and probably the next five years. I am a very happy individual with my home, family and interests. Sincerely,
WINIFRED KILGUS MILLER.

Dear Mr. Hornbace:

This letter is fulfilling an invitation received a few days ago from Mr. Craig.

I received my BS Degree from Western in 1943. From there I was sent to Ft. Benning, Georgia and was commissioned a Second Lieutenant along with many other Western ROTC graduates. I transferred to the Air Force, earned my wings, and flew as a heavy bomber pilot during the war.

After discharge from the service, I completed my training at the Palmer School of Chiropractic, Davenport, Iowa and am engaged in active practice in Owensboro.

I have met many Western friends here, including William McCormick, Paul Starks, Ben Allen Burns and many others.

My wife, Jeanette, is from Davenport, Iowa. We were married while I was attending Chiropractic school. We have one son, Joseph, age 14 months.

Respectfully yours,
J. J. Lindsey, D. C.

Butler Chosen Coach Of Year

Charles Butler, BS '34, of Marion has been voted the Navy's "Football Coach of the Year" by Navy and Marine Corps sports writers.

Butler is athletic director at the Alameda, California, Naval Air Station and during the 1948 season coached the Hellcat gridders to 10 wins against no losses.

This year is the second in succession that he has received the award. The poll is conducted by the Navy NEWS MAGAZINE. Butler's three-year record at Alameda is 28 wins in 32 games. Following graduation from Western he coached at Marion high school for three years and at Beechwood high before entering the Navy.

Press Association Honors Mack Sisk

A former Western student now receiving laurels in the journalistic field is Mack Sisk, co-publisher of the Dawson Springs PROGRESS, Dawson Springs, and general manager of the HOPKINS COUNTY TIMES, Madisonville.

Mr. Sisk's commendable achievement in newspaper work has recently merited honors bestowed upon the PROGRESS by the Kentucky Press Association and the National Board of Fire Underwriters. This board, in making the Gold Medal awards for 1948, named in the weekly newspaper realm one Gold Medalist and five Honorable Mention Citations, of which the PROGRESS was one. This paper was the only one in the South to receive such distinction.

Mr. Sisk, who was until recently president of the Dawson Springs Rotary club, won honors on the Western campus. He served as editor of the COLLEGE HEIGHTS HERALD, and was a member of the ROTC. Receiving his commission as Second Lieutenant at Fort Benning, Georgia, in March, 1943, he served with the armed forces in the European theater during World War II. He was discharged from the service in 1946 with the rank of Captain.

Working with Mr. Sisk on the HOPKINS COUNTY TIMES is Robert L. Towe, also a former Hill-topper.

In the meantime, any person you see limping around the campus, sitting gingerly and creakily, and uttering an inaudible "oh" as he reaches a point of rest, you may be sure is one of the footsore, weary pilgrims that trudged slowly back up the Hill between three and four o'clock after covering a distance of approximately thirteen miles.
